Plans for Watermelon Floats Must Be Put On File Tonight

Chairman Denty Warns That Last-Minute Plans Will Be Useless As Many Are Already In Course of Construction.

The Watermelon Festival committees are operating under the greatest handicap because with barely a week until the Festival date many of the 43 firms and individuals pledging floats for the parade have not yet indicated plans for them.

N. W. Denty, general chairman of the Festival committees, appeared to The Star this morning to make an urgent request that business houses reach a final decision today and put their plans in the hands of the float committee tonight.

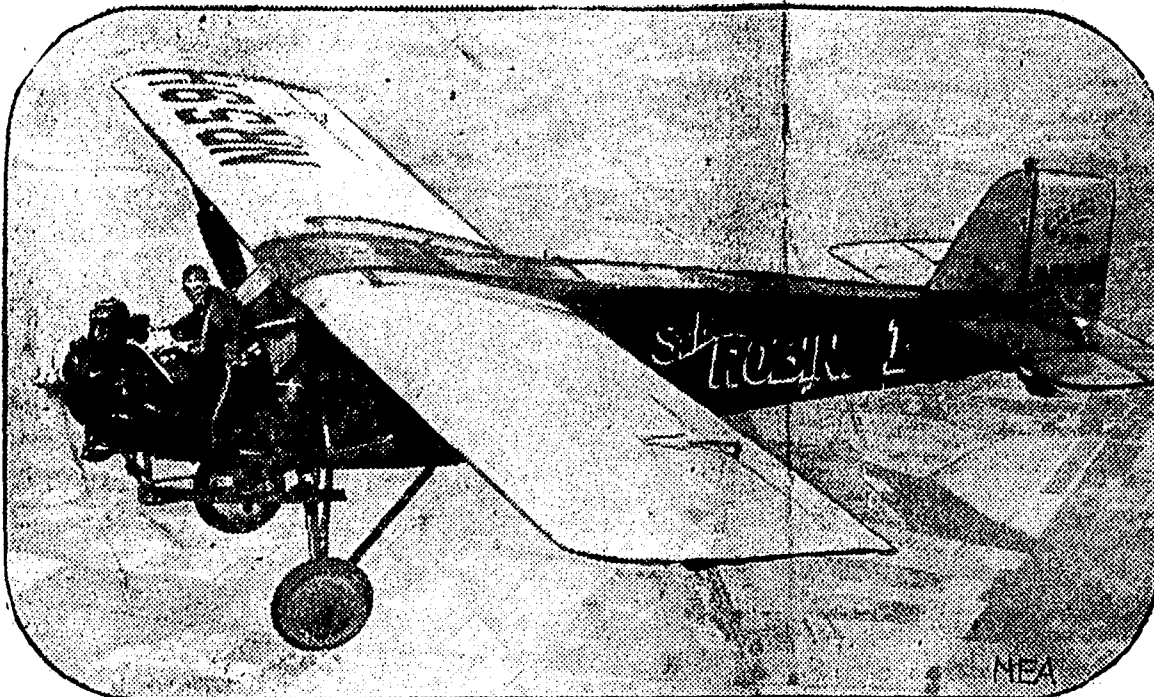

Unless plans are gotten under way today or tomorrow many of those who expect to have floats or decorated cars in the parade will be caught at the last minute unprepared. The capacity for building and decorating floats is always limited, and it will be physically impossible to start new ones at the last minute, Mr. Denty warned.

The list of 43 pledges, many of which are now being turned into complete, beautiful jobs, is as follows:

"M" System, Hope and Hemp-stead County Hospital association, New Grand theatre, New Capitol hotel, City cafe, Jack's Newsstand, Railway Express Agency, Farrin Greene, A. F. Weaver Insurance Agency, Patterson's Department Store, Hall-Moses Cleaning company, Hope Auto company, Frisco Railway company, John P. Cox Drug company, Business and Professional Women's club, Hope Rotary club, Kiwanis club, American Legion, American Legion Auxiliary, Young Chevrolet company, Monte Seed store, South Arkansas Implement company, Inc., three positions), Theo. P. Witt & Co., B. R. Hamm Motor company, Hope Radio Sales company, Hope Star, Hope Furniture company, Russell & Hawthorne, New York Store (Ed I. Rephan), Dobson & Co., D. M. Finley (Buick Motor agency), Arkansas Portland Cement company, Southern Ice & Utilities Co., Cox, Cassidy Foundry & Machine Co., Hope Steam Laundry company, Hope Brick Works, Rhodes Brothers (Thurman Rhodes), Kraft-Phenix Cheese company, Red Ball Stores, Montgomery Ward & Co., Fair Stores.

O'Brine is shown on the catwalk making adjustments to the motor. Below are seen "Ma" and "Pa" Jackson, who journeyed from their Minnesota home to greet their son and his flying partner when they finally landed. The record set by the Robin's pilots was 420:30 or 170 hours longer than any other plane ever stayed aloft. The landing was by request of the Curtiss-Robertson Airplane Corporation. County 4-H Teams Enter In Farmers Week Contests

County Agent Smith Says
Is Confident Will Take Honors.

COUNTY WINNERS

Teams Have Scored High
In All Contests So Far Entered.

The live stock judging team and the dairy judging team which will represent Hempstead county at Farmers' Week at Fayetteville August 6-9, were selected yesterday in the one-day school of all boys who are planning to make the trip.

The judges are: G. Gilbert, Guernsey; Doyle Purtle, Rocky Mount; Harry Derryberry, DeAnn; Foster Cannon, Saratoga; Van Jones.

According to M. W. Muldrow, Live Stock Specialist who trained them for University of Arkansas these boys scored a little higher than others who were scored in the judging. Draft horses, beef cattle, hogs, and sheep were the animals which the boys practiced on, and while the number of these animals having sufficient quality to be classed are few in the county, enough were found to give a good idea of type and allow practice for the boys.

The county dairy judging team is: Emmett Darnin, Shover Springs; Sid Fricks, Saratoga; Winston Cobb, Green Laseter; Nolen, Lewallen.

There is a possibility that one more boy may be added to this number before the finals. O. L. McMurray, district agent for south-west Arkansas, assisted in training these boys.

The following places were visited Tuesday for the purpose of getting animals suitable for training the boys: U. G. Story, dairy cattle; Zabe Miller, dairy cattle (Holstein); E. E. Austin, dairy cattle (Jersey); R. F. Bradshaw, draft horses; T. R. King, beef cattle (Angus); George Ware, hogs (Duroc); Zan Bateman, hogs (Poland China);

The three high scoring individuals at Fayetteville will be given out of state trips to National Live Stock and Dairy Shows. It is sincerely hoped according to County Agent Lynn Smith that Hempstead county will be able to place some boys on these teams.

Parole Revoked for Marcus Martin

Liberty Ends When Man Is Ordered Returned To
"Walls."

LITTLE ROCK, July 31.—(AP)—The parole of Marcus ("Crip") Martin, under a two-year sentence for second degree murder in Poinsett county and under arrest on a charge of accessory to murder and murder in connection with the recent death of Harry Groshon, of Harrisburg, has been revoked and he has been returned to prison to serve the remainder of his original sentence.

Morgan had been at liberty on parole for four months when arrested last week and charged with accessory to arson and murder, the charge growing out of the discovery of Groshon's charred bones in the remains of his home which was destroyed by fire. Groshon's wife is also held in jail in Harrisburg on a murder charge.

First Honor Goes To Northern End

Claude Hinton of Patmos,
Remembers Friends Here

Luther Hinton, from down Patmos way and a good friend of Star, took pity on his bunch of porridge, hard-working boys and this morning strolled carelessly into the office with a 70-pound watermelon under his arm, which he presented to the gang with his regards.

The shop was immediately divided into two hostile camps, one faction, led by Chris Westerman demanding slicing of the melon while the other, headed by Earl Turner, wanted to put it on ice and devour tonight about midnight after the long run was finished.

While they were arguing the editorial department swipes the melon and sent it to the ice plant for cooling, and we'll have it to-night—if Joe Kirby don't see it first.

Anyhow, if it is as good as it looks, Mr. Hinton is scheduled to receive a vote of thanks signed, sealed and delivered by everybody connected with the shop.

'St. Louis Robin' Makes New Record

Fliers Land On Order of Flight Sponsors, Not of Necessity.

ST. LOUIS, July 31.—(AP)—Dale ("Red") Jackson and Forest O'Brine came back to earth last night after living 171.2 days in the sky in their monoplane, thus setting a new and historic air record and descending only in time to pay their respects to a fallen "air buddy."

Abandoning their effort to attain a 500-hour mark aloft the fliers came down to bow before the bier of George Lea Lambert, their friend and fellow-flier who was killed in an airplane crash in St. Louis county yesterday afternoon.

Epic Flight Ends
The epic flight ended at 7:38 last night at Lambert-St. Louis field. The ground had been made muddy by a torrential rain an hour earlier but pilot Jackson brought the orange-colored plane to a perfect "three-point landing," while a crowd of 25,000 people, gathered to watch the flight, went wild.

Several persons were injured, but none seriously, when the crowd surged forward and broke down a restraining fence and brushed aside police resistance in their efforts to reach the victorious fliers.

City Painter Sketches Rec'less Driving Scenes

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 30.—H. D. Acuff, local truck driver, was fined for reckless driving through unique evidence introduced by N. T. Lowe, who is on the city payroll as a painter and also has police power.

Lowe, while engaged in painting, turned from his labors to see Acuff run his truck over the foot to Woodward Jernigan, 16. Lowe drew a detailed sketch of the accident, showing even the truck tracks the position of Jernigan, and the traffic light, painted red and showing that Acuff drove through it before striking Kerbian. The driver was fined $10.

Jury To Try Snook Finally Completed

After Five Days, Jury To Try Paramour Killer

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 31.—(AP)—After five days, in which time 99 persons were examined, a jury was completed at noon today to hear the first degree murder charge against Dr. James H. Snook, confessed hammer-slayer of his co-ed paramour, Theora K. Hix.

Snook's defense will be insanity, in preparation for which he has had every conceivable test made to support his claim.

Miss Geraldine Busby Winner of Judges Decision

Awarding Honor Matter
Not Easily Decided Judges Say.

ONE MAID IS ABSENT

Miss Fern Martin Away
Because of Illness
In Family.

Queen Geraldine reigns in the Watermelon Land.

Before a crowd which taxed the capacity of Saenger theatre here last night, a committee of judges, L. C. Cargile, of the Texarkana Rotary club; Tom J. Camp, of Little Rock; J. J. Cole, of Prescott Rotary Club; E. N. Stevenson, of Little Rock, and G. C. Robertson, of Texarkana Kiwanis club, selected Miss Geraldine Busby, Redland township, daughter of Mrs. W. L. Busby, as Queen of Hope's fourth annual Melon Festival to be held August eight.

Her Majesty, Queen Geraldine, is a brunette, graceful, attractive, with a winsome personality, from a family long prominent in county affairs. This is the first time she has sought honors in the annual melon event.

The choice of the judges was made only after the young ladies, one from each township in the county elected to serve as Maids during the Festival, had twice promenade the stage, each identified only by a numbered card. Three of them, Misses Annabelle Philbrick, Vera Houston and Geraldine Busby, were called back by the judges for the third time, the last named being awarded the honor.

Miss Clarice Cannon, of the Business and Professional Women's Club, was in charge of the affair, with dainty and demure little Miss Joy Gray acting as page, placing card numbers before each of the Maids as they came to a halt on the stage. Queen Leora, of last year's Festival, was unable to be present, being represented by Misses Mary Cook and Louise Hangan as her Maids of Honor. Miss Fern Martin, of Mine Creek township, one of this year's Maids, because of illness was unable to appear.

The Maids were guests of the Business and Professional Women's Club at a dinner at Hotel Barlow Tuesday evening and will be honored by a number of social affairs preceding date of the Festival.

Piggott Woman Is Deputy Sheriff

Writes Poetry, Composes
Music When Not Seeking Evildoers.

PIGGOTT, Ark., July 31.—(AP)—Mrs. Maude McNeil, wife of Sheriff G. A. McNeil of Clay county, is one of the few women deputy sheriffs and collectors in Arkansas.

In addition to her duties as deputy sheriff, collector and supervising a home for four children, Mrs. McNeil finds time to devote to her favorite recreation—writing poetry.

Mrs. McNeil now is conducting a poetry contest for the Forrest City district of the Arkansas Federation of Women's Clubs. She herself writes poetry, and has composed music. One of her compositions has been named, "The Club Woman's March," and it will be published and dedicated to the Federation at next year's meeting.

Annual Fete.

Among the many men prominent in public and private life in the southwest who will attend Hope's annual melon Festival on August 8 will be Mayor Pat Robinson, of Little Rock, and E. J. Bodman, vice president of the Union Trust Company, of the same city.

In a letter to Winn Denty, general chairman of Festival Committees, received today, Mr. Bodman expressed appreciation of the invitation extended and that he, in company with Mayor Robinson, will be present.

To Make Survey of State Forests

At Governor's Request, A
Complete Survey of Forests
To Be Made.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 31.—(AP)—A survey of the forests of Arkansas, to be started about September 1 of this year, has been authorized by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, with a view to recommendation of a program for prevention of forest fires, it was announced today by Governor Parnell following receipt of a letter from the secretary of agriculture.

Governor Parnell several days ago requested Secretary Hyde to authorize the survey, which is to be paid for by the federal government out of funds provided under the Clark-McNary act of 1924. A. J. Strauss of Malvern, president of the Arkansas Forest Protective Association, and other members of the association, also were instrumental in securing the survey, which Mr. Strauss termed "a great step forward in development of the state's resources."

C. F. Evans, in charge of the district forestry office of the department of agriculture, at New Orleans, probably will be assigned to supervise the survey. Mr. Strauss and William L. Hall of Hot Springs, secretary of the association, recently conferred with R. Y. Stuart, chief of the forestry department, and Mr. Evans' tentative selection was made at that time.

Youths Seeking Edison's Crown

One of Number Will Wear
Mantle of Wizard of Electricity.

EAST ORANGE, N. J., July 31.—(AP)—Rather badly frightened youths to the number of 49 were assembled here today for a series of tests to determine upon which one of them the mantle of Thomas A. Edison shall descend.

The boys registered in age from 15 to 21 years and came from the 48 states and the District of Columbia.

They were selected by elimination as the "brightest" in their several states and to the winner will go a scholarship, awarded by Edison, for four years' tuition in technical schools.

CAMDEN, July 31.—(AP)—Chatten Haynes, Jr., of this city, is the Arkansas representative in the Edison scholarship contest, the only survivor in a field of 22 in contests conducted throughout the state. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Haynes.

Young Haynes is an Eagle Scout and a member of the Hi-Y club. In 1927-28 he won state inter-school contest in plane geometry, and in 1929 won honorable mention in a contest sponsored by the University of Arkansas.

The Star's stay-at-home dollars were slow to change yesterday, Number Two making but one jump, and Number One failing to report from Bodeaw, Nevada county, where a Mr. May carried it last Friday.

LITTLE ROCK, July 31.—(AP)—Lynn Smith and Miss Mary Buechley, county and Home Demonstration agents of Hempstead county, filed appeals today in the supreme court from the ruling of the Hempstead county circuit court which sustained the county court's action in refusing to pay salaries.

The amounts sued for were $250 and $200 respectively, the claims for salary having been denied by the Hempstead county court, though allegedly ordered paid by the Quorum court.

PROSPERITY IS JUST ANOTHER WORD FOR TEEM

Alabama bootleggers are "evidently" employing few Rolls-Royces in their operations just now. Five automobiles seized by federal dry agents brought a total of only $187.50 when sold at auction in Montgomery a few days ago, prices ranging from $26 to $50.

BLITHEVILLE, July 31.—(AP)—Election of officers and selection of next year's convention city faced the Arkansas Legion today just before the close of its 11th annual convention.

There was no outstanding candidate for Commander of the state department to succeed Dr. L. J. Kosminsky, of Texarkana, and the selection is expected to be fought out on the floor of the convention.

Fort Smith is the leading contestant for next year's convention city. O. L. Bedenheimer, of El Dorado, was endorsed for next National Commander. He is said to have strong support among departments of other southern states.

Yo-Yoing, In the Opinion of Some People, Can Be Carried To Extremes

Tommy Bacon, who has arrived at the mature age of about four, is the latest addict to the yo-yo habit and is spending long hours in an effort to perfect himself in the art of twirling the toy. Which said assiduous practice is the cause of a standing disagreement between Tommy and his parent on his father's side.

The two-day celebration has been observed since 1906 under auspices of the Prairie Grove chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, and attracts visitors from many states and veterans from both the North and South.

An historic pageant will feature the reunion. This pageant will be given both evenings. A display of fire works will close the reunion Thursday night.

Hope Boy At C. M. T. C. Is In Hospital With Flu

Clyde Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Phillips, of this city, is in a hospital at Jefferson Barracks, C. M. T. C., is suffering an attack of influenza.

His condition is not serious, but at that the folks will be glad to have him home again.

other way he wants it to go. For Mr. Bacon it wiggles and twists, refuses to climb back up the string and finally dies altogether. Tommy, at his performance, smiles cherubically—and at his dad's outbursts when the dad-blamed thing won't "gee" nor "haw," looks pained and horrified.

This morning Ira Halliburton and Mr. Bacon were seen to equip themselves with a toy each and head for a secluded spot, each wearing a look of firm determination in his eye—a look which plainly told they'd master the bloomin' thing or bust a home-string trying.

And now there are two more entrants in our contest.

Airplanes on the Way

THE remarkable flight of Pilots Jackson and O'Brine, who descended at St. Louis last night after remaining in the air for 420 consecutive hours, speaks volumes for the tool-makers who have been improving aeronautical engines since the World War.

Endurance flights in the air will be remembered by early automobile enthusiasts as similar to the to the trans-continental tests for cars. The automobile was appearing in considerable numbers about 1910, but it was decidedly a novelty and was restricted to short runs. A motor trip in those days was a real adventure if it carried the tourist outside his own state. The improvement of automobile engines, almost to infallibility, changed all that.

Dependence upon the gasoline engine nowadays is a matter of course—and we are coming to feel that same faith in the aeronautical industry.

The Navy developed the Wright Whirlwind engine and pointed the way for commercial development along similar lines. The motor which drove Jackson and O'Brine to their record-breaking achievement last night at St. Louis—a Challenger—was a small re edition of the air-cooled radial engine made famous by the Navy, Lindbergh, Chamberlain and Ford.

Structural failures have been almost unknown to the air since the development of planes in the World war. The motor was almost the last required development, and now Jackson and O'Brine have come down at St. Louis a week or two before their plane was prepared to quit, it is obvious that the airplane is on its way to immediate acceptance by the automobile public.

The 1930 Campaign

THE political pot in the state is beginning to boil. The opposition to Governor Parnell seems to be getting its guns trained on the demerits or shortcomings of the present administration, and not on any constructive program. The taking of the state highway commission out of politics and the Hall income tax law will probably be the principal targets upon which the opposition will direct its fire.

We are not a very warm admirer of Governor Parnell. We think he is a bit "light" and lacks needed intestinal fortitude to be the chief executive of a commonwealth such as Arkansas. However, we favored taking the highway commission out of politics because it was following the policy used in North Carolina, Illinois and several other states that have made remarkable records in highway progress. We've seen much harm from the old system when the highway commissioner had to make all sorts of road trades to get elected. The Hall income tax bill is in better favor now than it was four months ago, and will be considerably more popular next summer if the provisions of the bill are carried out. We doubt if there will be much thunder in opposing the state income tax law next year if the improvements at the Booneville sanitarium, and the new hospital for nervous diseases, scattered in every county of the state, are enjoying great under construction, and a hundred or so rural community improved educational facilities and the state millage is reduced a mill or more, which are provisions of the law.

The firing by the voters is more than a year off and we shall see what we shall see. —Morrilton Democrat.

Good Riddance

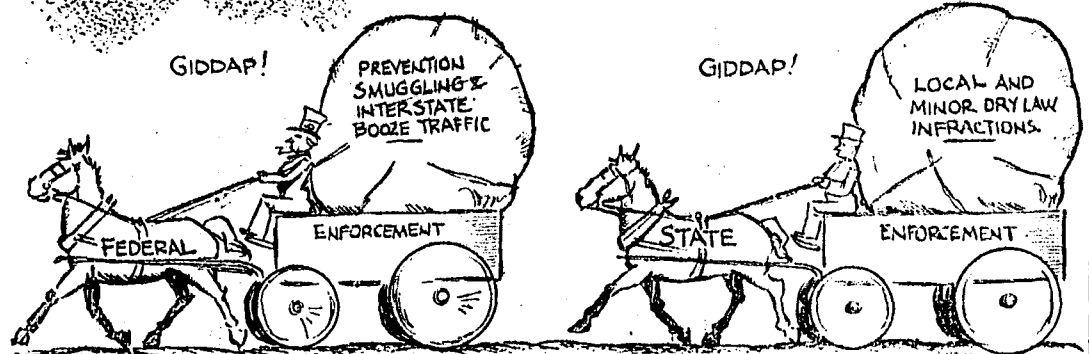

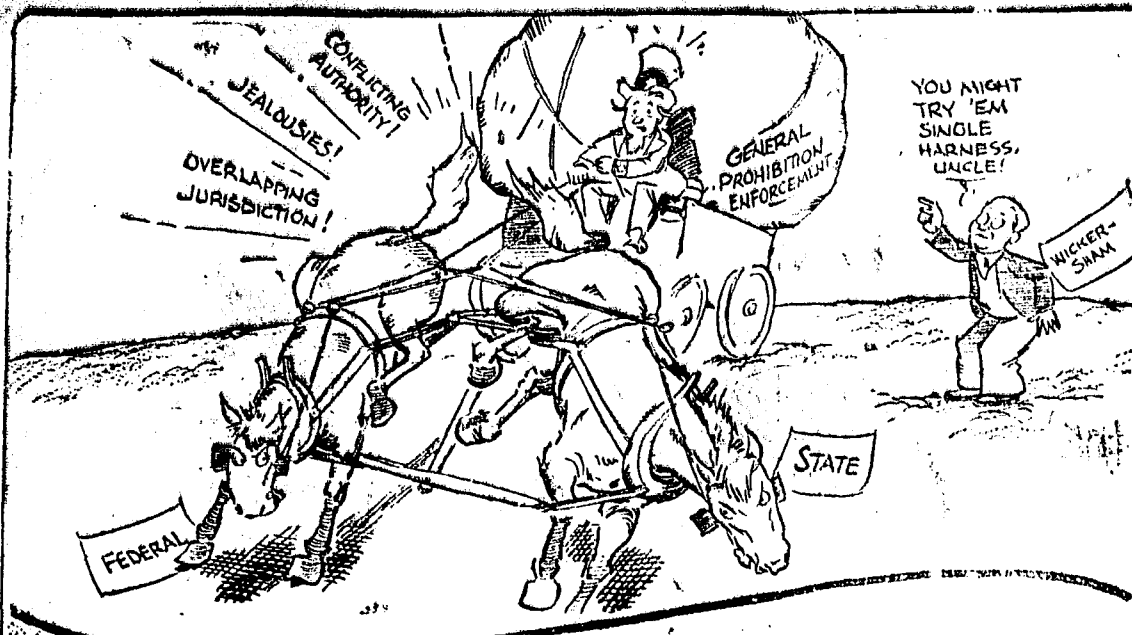

THE passing of years has a way of putting a romantic hue on things that looked quite otherwise to their contemporaries.

A newspaper columnist, visiting San Francisco, notes that the famous—or infamous—Barbary Coast region has lost its former glory. It is deserted and quiet now, given over to garages, warehouses and the like; and reading about it one grows almost ready to feel sorry about it, until one remembers what the Barbary Coast really was.

Frisco's Barbary Coast was its region of sailor town dives. It was popularly supposed to be the wickedest spot on earth, and very likely it really was. Sailors were robbed, shanghaied, beaten, murdered there; every crime on the calendar was committed there; San Francisco is infinitely better off for its passing.

And yet, somehow, because it belonged to the romantic past, we find ourselves feeling sorry that it is gone!

Some Teams Just Won't Work Together in Double Harness!

WOULD THESE TWO DO BETTER HITCHED SEPARATELY?

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON — A western congressman fired his secretary the other day, after she had been with him seven years, with the explanation that he "needed the money for his family."

So the secretary left and the congressman now has her salary for awhile to add to his own for current expenses. It's an old graft and seems to be worked in many instances both by members of the house and the senate.

Members of the house are allowed a flat $5,000 a year for clerk hire. Often a congressman hires a girl for $50 a week and pockets the other $2,500 for himself. The figures vary, of course. But the congressman is not accountable to anyone for the $5,000.

Each senator is allowed a personnel of four office helpers, with salaries graded at $3,900, $2,400, $2,000 and $1,800. Some senators take the lowest salary and divide it among three employees.

Sometimes a senator puts members of his family on the payroll, who need not show up except on payday. One senator is reported to have three members of his family ostensibly in his office. Quite a few offices appear to have persons drawing government "clerk hire" money who never appear at the office. It's simple enough to have the salary turned over to a person who can then turn it over to the senator on receipt.

Of course examples of niggardliness are sometimes matched by examples of generosity. Sometimes a senator who considers his secretary worth more than $3,900 and then the $1,800 salary is paid to the secretary's wife or other relative. Few senatorial offices employ four persons. Several instances of senators who work this type of graft occur to one—and conspicuous instances, too. But it would not be fair to mention a few without mentioning them all. Sometimes a relative of a congressman or senator works hard at the job and does it as well as anyone else could do it.

If anything should happen to President Hoover, it will be comforting to know that the health of Vice President Curtis is not only good but getting better. So that if Curtis ever lands in the White House it won't be of pressing necessity to recall who would succeed him in case of accident.

Although he is now 69 years old, the Vice President has added four inches to his chest expansion in the last three years, which is a good record for anyone to shoot at, regardless of age.

Three years ago Mr. Curtis had his tonsils removed. It appears that these things had been in bad condition and had been poisoning his system. After the operation the then Senator Republican floor leader began to improve and he hasn't been tired since.

BARBS

Ambassador Dawes refused to take a sip of wine at a luncheon in London the other day, but he cracked several jokes that all the guests got a good laugh out of. The ambassador is quite a dry wit.

The people who ask for advice usually resent it when it is unfavorable.

If China and Russia really should go to war, the struggle at least would have a nifty Red-and-Yellow color scheme.

Oh, may I be strong and brave, to-day,
And may I be kind and true,
And greet all men in a gracious way,
With frank good cheer in the things I say,
With love in the deeds I do,
May the simple heart of a child be mine,
And the grace of a rose in bloom;
Let me fill the day with a hope divine
And turn my face to the sun's glad shine,
With never a cloud of gloom.

FESTIVAL MAIDS DINNER

A very pretty courtesy was extended the Maids who will represent the different townships of the county at the Fourth annual Watermelon Festival in this city, August 8th, when they and their hostesses were entertained at dinner in the private dining room of the Hotel Barlow yesterday evening, by the Hope Business and Professional Women's Club, which co-operated with the Festival officers in staging the affair.

The long banquet tables were beautifully decorated with vases of pastel-shaded dahlias and ferns, and the lovely honorees in their pretty frocks, attested to the fact that watermelons are not the only products in which Hempstead county excels.

Miss Clarice Cannon, vice-president of the Club, presided over the meeting, in the absence of Miss Elizabeth Harrison, and introduced the maids: Misses Margaret Hicks, Hazel Sims, Annabel Philbrick, Con Vera Houston, Francis Moss, Swan Garner, Mattie Mae Kent, Lulu Spears, Geraldine Busby and Audrey Cox. Miss Fern Martin, Mine Creek Township representative, was unable to be present.

Misses Louise Hanagan and Mary Cook, who will sponsor the 1928 Queen, were honor guests, also. Miss Cannon also presented the hostesses, Mesdames R. R. Gillespie, L. C. Johnson, Terrell Cornelius N. W. Denty, J. L. Myers, Elbert Crutchfield and E. O. Wingfield.

A splendid attendance of Club members was noted, considering the fact that so many are out of town on vacation. As usual, unstinted co-operation for the successful promotion of the Festival, is being given by this splendid group of young women, whose civic pride and loyalty cannot be minimized.

The next regular Club meeting will be on the evening of Tuesday, August 20th.

Following the dinner, the guests adjourned to the Saenger theater, where the Queen for the 1929 Festival, Miss Geraldine Busby, was chosen.

Most people agree that it is better to give than to receive advice.

Business Indebted To Its Home Town

J. C. Penney Agent Reveals American Cities as Tourists See Them.

"One of the investigators for the J. C. Penney company recently completed a crosscountry trip by motor car, calling on scores of store towns and seeing the picture of the towns in the light of the average resident of any city or town in the country" says C. R. Evans, manager of the local store of that organization.

"Out of his trip he suggested the following questions and answers which have been sent to every manager of the 1285 towns where there are stores. The question is, 'What does business owe its home town?' The answer is 'Cooperation with every worthwhile activity in town'.

Quoting him, Mr. Evans says, "Cooperation means co-working with everyone in town in every way that can make the town better. Many towns throughout the county are handicapped by bad approaches, rough roads at the end of state highways. Business owes it to the town and to itself to do all it can to have these rough entrances improved.

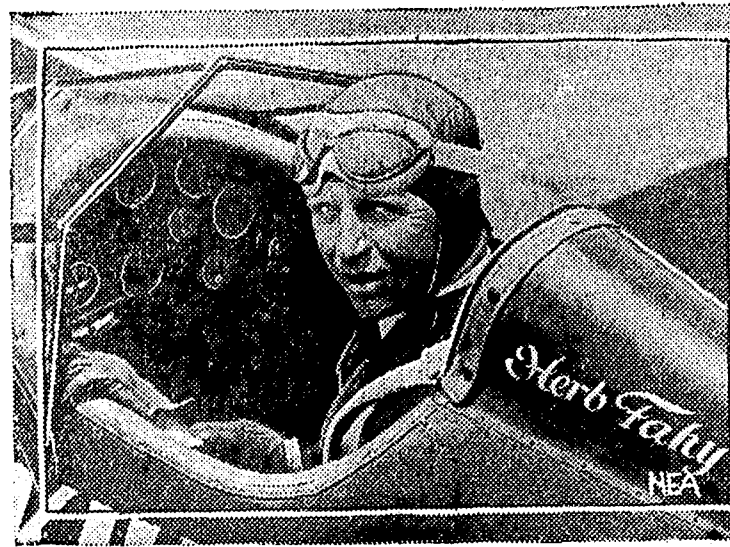

"Many towns are losing far more than the cost of the improvements because travelers will not come into town over bad approaches.

"Some towns are still handicapped by toll roads and bridges which penalize everyone driving into the town. This condition is gradually being eliminated but its complete elimination should be assured by the insistent demands of business men in the towns affected.

Obsolete speed laws oftentimes unwisely enforced by local magistrates put a blemish on the reputation of any town and it becomes the business of every business man in the town to see that motorists mindful of the rights of others, are not penalized by misplaced zealots.

"Clean streets and sidewalks are an asset to any town. It is a matter of city politics to see that the streets are kept clean and well lighted that defacing signs are removed, that trees along the road are kept in proper condition. The street and sidewalk are the aisles which lead like the shabby-looking individual.

"Local newspapers should be supported in every way for the newspaper is the messenger to the homes of everyone in the city and its surrounding areas.

"The importance of the local newspaper has increased by leaps and bounds during the past several years. Business houses have learned that the local paper, the one published in the town where it circulates is the quickest approach to local interest.

"By prevailing itself of the opportunity to use the local newspaper to its greatest advantage any local business house is making the value of that paper a constantly increasing asset to itself.

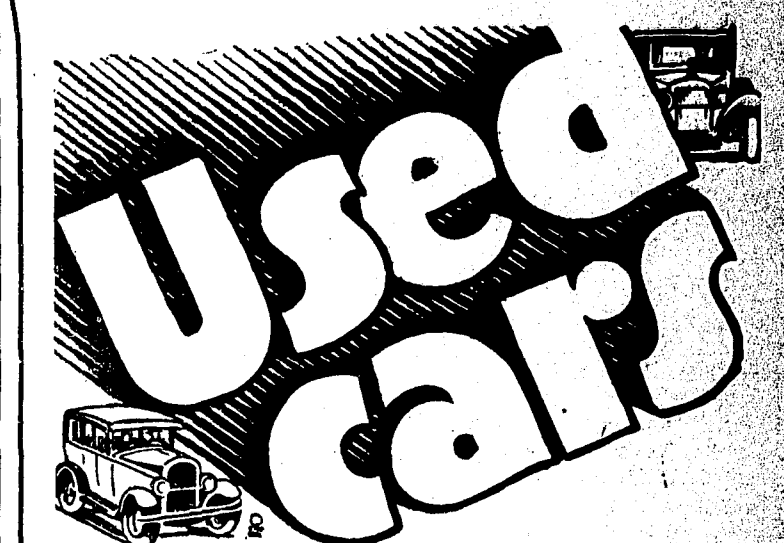

"Towns make the same kind of an impression on a person as people do for towns are highly personal things. The town with the clean approach, with neat looking streets, with attractively decorated stores, with well-kept homes is like the man who dresses in good taste and whose actions indicate sincerity and well-being.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

The SHINING TALENT

By ELEANOR EARLY © 1929 BY NEA Service Inc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Molly Burnham, sob sister on a Boston newspaper, has been shot by a dope fiend known as Dopey Dan. Molly was covering the Mandelino trial—the trial of a notorious gunman charged with the murder of a night watchman.

She believed the defendant guilty, and her stories were admirably biased. As a result of one of her articles falling in the hands of a jurymen, the judge called a mistrial. Meantime, this Dopey Dan—his drug-crazed brain fired with the exploits of Chicago's racketeers—determined to kill Molly.

His bullets wound her in the shoulder, and she is taken to the Bellefleur Station, where her name is on the dangerous list. Dan calls an orange smeared with rat poison, and shoots himself for good measure.

Because of the shooting, Molly has received widespread publicity. Ned declares that it is worth a million dollars in advertising, and predicts a great success for their play. Then Jack receives the notion that if Molly is going to have a career, she would be better off if their engagement were broken. He tried to tell her, but she promptly runs a temperature of 102 degrees and her nurse sends him away.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER XIX

The paper was sending Molly to Florida to recuperate. It was the night before she was to leave and Jack had come to say good-by.

She greeted him rapturously. "Oh, Jack, Rita's going to have a baby!"

"Zatso?"

"Is that so?" she cried. "Why, Jack, Wells, I thought you'd be thrilled to death."

He grinned. "Lots of women have 'em."

"But Rita's different," she pointed out. "Theirs was a companionate marriage."

"Well, it all amounts to about the same thing, doesn't it? Now she's going to have a child, like her mother and her grandmother and all the mothers since Eve. Nothing very revolutionary about that."

"Well, anyhow, I think it's perfectly wonderful," declared Molly. "Rita's the happiest girl in the world."

Molly's eyes grew wistful. "Just seeing her so glad made me think it must be wonderful to be married, and to be going to have a little baby."

"But us writers," taunted Jack. "must have our careers. You know Molly, I haven't mentioned breaking our engagement since that day at the hospital when you ran a temperature on me. But I've thought of it plenty, and I haven't changed my mind any."

Molly had put her arms about his neck, when Jack did a most incredible thing. Unclassing her hands, he withdrew from her embrace.

"Molly, I can't be hardboiled when you do that! Can't you see that what I'm trying to do is for your own good? If I were to bust up your career, I'd feel like a rat. And after a while you'd hate me. On the other hand, if you go ahead, you're going to make a ton of money. Then where do I get off? Nowhere at all. You'd despise me if you had all the money, and I didn't have any."

"That's a dreadful way for you to talk, Jack. Besides, I may be an awful flop."

"Then I'll marry you," he promised.

"But that's not the half of it," she declared. "Suppose I do get somewhere—you're going to, too, honey."

"Sure I am," he boasted. "Only I haven't made the grade yet. And I'm not going to be any hanger-on while you're going strong. If I'd made my little pile, it would be a different story. Don't you know I'm right, dear?"

"No. But I'll do what you say. I'll let our engagement be broken, if that's what you want. And, by and by, I can prove that I love you more than fame, or money or anything."

I reckon everyone in love is more or less jealous, honey."

"No, they're not," she affirmed. "Psychoanalysts say that jealousy is an indication of an inferior complex."

"Yes—and how old are psychoanalysts?" he demanded. "They're ancient fossils who've forgotten all about being young and in love. Maybe they never were in love anyhow. What do they know about it? But I'm not cross, dear. And if I'm jealous, it's my own funeral. I hope you and Red hit the bull's eye. Honest I do."

A week later Molly and Red were hard at work. They had left the train at Jacksonville, where they hired a second-hand car, and motored on to St. Petersburg. The car was theirs for six weeks. They had lolloped at St. Augustine, and they stopped in Daytona to see the famous beach, where a friend of Red's had been killed driving a racing car.

At St. Augustine, over the ancient walls of the oldest house in America, there grows a money vine, and the legend is that whoever carries a leaf of it will always have wealth. Molly had promised not to write Jack, unless a time should come when she needed his help. But now she put leaves in an envelope, and sent them to Jack for a talisman.

"I'd lots rather," she told herself, "have Jack be somebody, than be somebody myself." And at the time she believed she meant it, for she was missing him cruelly. And Red was not at all cruelly tactful.

"Any girl that can earn a good living is pretty darn lucky," observed Red one day.

They were at Don Ce-Sar Beach, watching a group of young people who played at being acrobats. They were strong young things, with beautiful brown bodies, slim and straight and supple.

"Look at 'em," said Red. "The young out of the nest. Rich kids on a holiday. And pretty soon the holiday will be over—and the boys will go to work. They'll learn to forage for themselves."

herred Consciousness that had the adult world by its ears? Surely there was none of it among these beautiful, naked pagans. These glorious boys and girls who romped and swam, and rode the waves like sun-tanned sprites.

"There's a new youth," she told Red wisely. "Look at that girl! don't know it. There isn't enough material in the suit she's wearing to make a bandanna. And the boy with her—the one in trunks, without a jersey—did you ever see a finer looking boy in your life?"

They had been racing in the water—the girl in blue, and the boy in trunks—and now, breathless, they had thrown themselves on the beach.

"I wonder," mused Molly, "if there are middle-aged moralists anywhere with as little sex consciousness as those two. Wearing a lot of clothes and cultivating repressions doesn't do much for morality. I think boys and girls in sun suits are the sanest, healthiest, beautiful things in the world."

"Now, Molly!" Red laughed at her earnestness. "Don't turn propagandist. You're all dated up to foreg this fine, clean youth you're hipped on. You gotta bend your talents to a swell, dirty play. Lay off young virtue now, and get busy on middle-aged sin."

Her hotel was on the beach, and Molly's room faced the ocean. She found she could have a swim, and still work six hours a day.

enger coupe and a seven passenger phaeton. The 50 and 60 series are equipped with 31 x 6.50 tires.

The performance abilities of the 1930 Buick, its acceleration, hill-climbing power and its road speed, have been proven throughout months of testing on the General Motors Proving Ground.

Using four-door sedan models of each series, each car carrying a load of 450 pounds, acceleration tests showed the following results—

The 118 and the 124 wheelbase models, series 40 and 50, accelerated from 0 to 25 M. P. H. in 8.4 seconds; the series 60 model in 8.7 seconds. Testing from 10 to 25 M. P. H. the 40 and 50 each showed 6.2 seconds with the series 60 car closely following at 6.3 seconds.

The series 40 model accelerated from 10 to 40 M. P. H. in 13.2 seconds; the series 50 car in 12.9 seconds; and the series 60 model in 14.1 seconds.

In hill climbing ability all models carrying the same 450 pound loads were used in this test on a 1,400 foot hill presenting an 11.5 per cent grade. The series 40 and 50 cars reached the peak of the hill at a speed of 26 miles per hour or better from a 5 M. P. H. start, closely followed by the series 60 car traveling at 25 miles per hour or better.

Clara Bow and Future Husband

Clara Bow, famous "IT" girl of movieland, is pictured here with her husband-to-be, Harry Richman, New York night club owner and actor. That beaming smile on Clara's face comes from the fact that "she's just so happy!" as Richman slips on the $10,000 engagement ring. They are to be married soon.

But how about the girls? What's over there?"

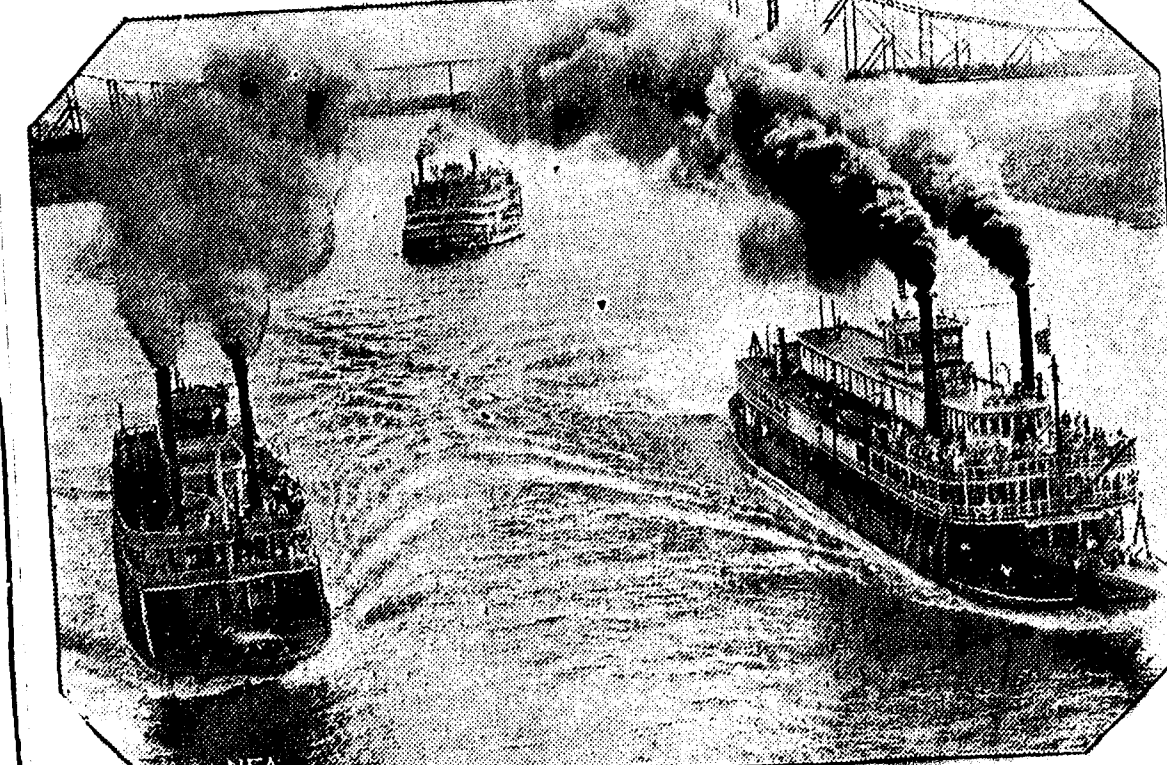

The Peril was a tremendous woman in a yellow sun suit. She was dressed like the slim young things, in a suit without a back. And her flesh fell in great loose waves, that quivered like jelly.

"You ought to bring a Jane like that into the play. Touch of comedy. We'll have to relieve the tragedy somehow. How'd it be to introduce a scene on Don Ce-Sar beach?"

Molly watched the young people on the beach with marveling interest. She had heard so much of the thing called Sex Consciousness. Where was it, this stalking-ness. Where was it, this stalking-

When the Tom Greene Beat Betsy Ann

Here's the finish of the race from Cincinnati to New Richmond on the Ohio river between the stern-wheelers Betsy Ann, left, and the Tom Greene. The Tom Greene edged across the finish line winner by ten feet over its rival and thereby retained the Elk's antlers, symbolic of speed, won last year from the Betsy Ann. Twenty thousand people along the banks were thrilled as the packets, with smoke curling from twin smoke stacks and the waters churning heavily, approached the finish line almost in a dead heat.

Larger Motors In 1930 Model Buick

New Engines Develop 80 and 99 H. P. — On View Today.

Offering advancements that exceed every prediction made for it, the 1930 Buick line of fourteen new motor cars was presented to the public yesterday. Greater power, longer wheelbases, lower, longer and more beautifully attractive bodies and innumerable mechanical improvements and refinements are among the many surprises that await the interested motorist who visits the Buick showroom.

The 1930 Buick will be offered in 14 models divided in three series known as the 40 - 50 and 60 series. Series 40 embraces six models; series 50, two models and series 60, six models.

Additional power has been built into the Buick line by increasing the bore one-eighth inch on all models, producing in the famous over-head Buick six engine an eight per cent increase in power. This gives the models of the 40 series 80 1-2 horsepower with a piston displacement of 257 cubic inches. The engine in the series 40 line has a bore of 3.7 - 16 inches and a 4.5 - 8 inch stroke.

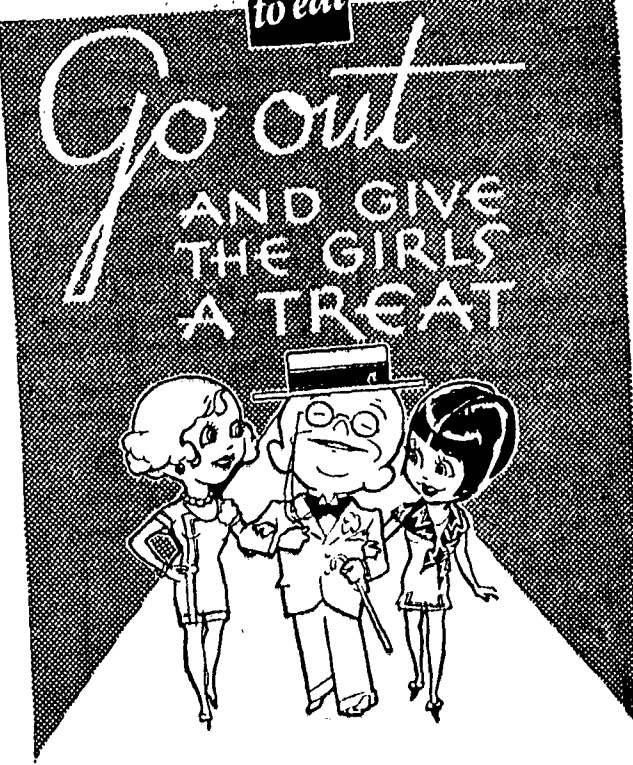

The larger engine used in the 50 and 60 series of cars has a bore of 3.3 - 4 inches and a 5 inch stroke. With a piston displacement of 331 cubic inches, this engine develops 99 horsepower.

All models have an actual speed in excess of 70 miles per hour.

The wheelbase in the 40 series has been increased from 116 to 118 inches. On series 50 models, from 121 to 124 inches, and on series 60 models from 129 to 132 inches.

In addition to the longer wheelbase, all models have been lowered approximately two inches giving long, low graceful lines that are eloquent of the surging power that has

Arl Shires the Leader Now

Miracle of all miracles. A very strange thing has come to pass. Mouthy Durocher, the most celebrated jockey in the big leagues has become silent.

"I haven't heard a word from him this season since he got in there working every day," said one of the best known American League umpires. And the umpire, who was Mr. Will McGowan, added that he had worked in plenty of games this season with the Yankees.

Last year Durocher, who served most of his time on the bench, had the league in a turmoil and he won the reputation of being the fresh-rookie who ever came into ball. One or two of the older in the league were said to have slapped him with no results.

Things on His Mind

It is sure that Durocher hasn't intimidated or that he has

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Der Schmeling says he nicht verstehe how any fighter can spend one hundred snucks a week and stay in shape. And a lot of fighters can't understand how you get a hundred snucks every week. When Luke Sewell came to the bat in Cleveland the other day one of the customers yelled—"Come on, Luke, get your July hit!" And when one of the best batters in the American League came to the bat against the A's, Mike Cochran, the A's catcher, said to the umpire—"The day is saved, here comes our man!" And it made the batter so mad he looked at a third strike while he was telling the Mike what he thought of him—Eddie Rommel, one of the A's pitchers, had a third strike called on him—He whirled around and demanded of the umpire—"Where was it? Where was it?"—And the umpire said—"Right in your stomach, you blow bag."—Huck Wilson says he is not called Huck because he looks like one—But because a sports writer once said he looked like Mackenschmidt—The rasser.

lost his aggressive spirit," McGowan said. "We all think that he has become serious about his work. He has to keep his mind on the job when he is out there and he can't be thinking up wise cracks."

Another baseball man had another theory about the taming of the Durocher.

"He's in there almost every day now," he said. "And he's in a spot where the fellows he used to ride can give it back to him. When you are a fresh jockey and in there every day on the baseline the guys you're ridin' can shave you down with the spikes or knock you for a loop when they come into the bag. The bench is the place for hard riding jockeys and the old-timers know it. Durocher is getting to be an old-timer. Some one must have told him something."

Round Trip to Philly

As soon as the Philadelphia Athletics get home the American League pennant race is going to be a breeze for them, a smart baseball official said a few days ago.

"On July 15 they had a lead of eight games," he said, "and that's a whole of a lead. Eight games doesn't sound like a whole lot to the average fan, but it's a big thing in baseball. The A's have been playing great ball and so have the Yankees and when two contending teams are winning the same number of games and losing almost the same number a four-game lead would hold them for three weeks at least. Well, figure out what eight games mean."

Yanks Wait in Vain

"The Yankees are still a great ball club. They are playing smart," he went on. "They figure that the A's are bound to crack and then they will find the opening to step through with a grand finish. But I don't believe the A's are going to crack."

"They kept up their spirit and their winning gait with Mule Haas and Mickey Cochrane out of the game, with Joe Booley laid up for most of the season and with Max Bishop almost blind with sinus trouble. They haven't had their full strength at any one time this season."

"Grove may go through the season without losing five ball games and, gosh knows, how many he may win. We always knew that he would be a wonder when he got some real control and when he lost some of his temper. He sure has control this year and we don't know how any team beats him."

AN APPRECIATION

Words are inadequate to express my appreciation to you, who helped me to be one of the maids in the melon festival next week. I am deeply indebted to each and all of you.

Everything Set for Fast Card At Rink In Thursday Night Show

Williams, Wow-Wow and Carter Either In or Due Today and Week's Card Begins To Look Like Winner—Celmars Ready.

"Smilin' Red" Williams, accompanied by Mrs. Williams and the young lady who bosses the dairy farm her daddy owns over to Paris where "Red" lives, breezed in this morning, "Red" announces himself in prime condition, ready to step with Wow-Wow to a definite conclusion, though somewhat ruefully admitted he was in for an evening of work. "This Wow-Wow," quoth "Red," is a good boy. Clean, fast, willing to take it to get in one—and if he gets that one in where he wants it—well, the fight's over. Think I can take him but you tell the world it's not a picnic.

Johnny Celmars, local man, goes on with Jimmie Carter, clown boxer, in the semi-final. Clown the ringers think he is, but the fellow in the ring with him knows differently. Stopping that little bald-headed whirlwind is one thing they have all tried and in which they have all failed. Beat him? Sure. Some of them have—but they've never got him out for the count.

Celmars thinks he can turn the trick. Jimmie scoffs at the idea A difference of opinion—and it ought to make a boxing bout worth seeing. If Celmars ever gets home with his pet punch and Carter don't go out—well, that'll be another story and one well worth telling. For Celmars' record shows whenever he hits a man right that man stays hit for several minutes.

Fans are expecting to witness one among the best cards presented this year and in that expectation will likely not be disappointed, for the game here is growing nicely and there are some good engage-

Hope Boy Wins In C. M. T. C. Contests

Luther Reynerson Walks Off With Bantam Boxing Crown.

JEFFERSON BARRACKS, St. Louis, July 30.—Lawrence Reynerson, of Hope, assigned to "D" Company in C. M. T. C., has been declared bantamweight boxing champion in the camp. The local boy was awarded championship honors after winning last Friday night from Joe Smith in one of the hottest three-round scraps the camp has seen this season. Smith, of Fairfield, Ill., assigned to "C" Company, was rated as the best in camp until he hooked up with the Hope youth.

Reynerson, besides bearing the distinction of being camp champ, will sport a gold medal won when he was awarded the title.

The camp closes with a big parade on August 5 and the 1500 boys who have been in training leave for home the next day.

Barham Funeral Is Most Impressive

Thousands Pay Tribute To Former Military Official.

LITTLE ROCK, July 31.—(AP)—Officials of state and thousands of his friends paused today to pay their last tribute to Major Barham as his body was laid to rest in Oaklawn cemetery after an impressive military funeral.

Hundreds of persons, unable to gain admission into the funeral parlors where services were held, thronged both sides of Main street. Captain Crossett, chaplain of the 153rd Infantry, A. N. G., conducted the funeral ceremony.

After services, the casket was placed on an artillery caisson and borne to the cemetery. A firing squad fired three volleys and a bugler sounded "taps," traditional farewell to a soldier.

By proclamation of Governor Parnell, the capitol was closed during the morning. Major Barham for five years had been chief inspector in the military department, serving under five administrations.

Has Had Long Experience In Consular Service Abroad.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP)—John W. Garrett, Baltimore banker, is understood to be the selection of President Hoover as ambassador to Italy succeeding H. D. Fletcher who has determined to retire from the diplomatic service.

Garrett's name was recently proposed to the Italian government and it is reported today that government reported he was entirely acceptable.

This will not be the Baltimore banker's first service in the diplomatic field, he having served nearly 20 years in various consular and embassy posts.

Say Vestris Was Badly Over-Loaded

LONDON, July 31.—(AP)—The Lambert & Holt liner Vestris, when she set out on her fatal voyage in November was sadly overloaded and unfit to encounter the perils of the trip was the finding today of the Board of Trade inquiry into the sinking which cost 112 lives.

The inquiry court also declared that when peril developed the ship's SOS call was too greatly delayed, declaring it should have been sent out six hours earlier.

The court set a record in its 40-day hearing of the case, going into every detail as to the ship's tragic ending.

The Vestris founded off Virginia Capes in November.

Kidnaper's Boasts To Girl Reveal Him As Chicago Athlete-Bandit

Because he boasted of athletic prowess to Dolores Bannon (left) as he kidnapped her, Henry W. Nelson is facing robbery charges.

CHICAGO, July 29.—(AP)—Many a gangster has been "taken for a ride" because he talked too much, but Henry W. Nelson, 23-year-old athlete-bandit, is in jail because he talked too much on a ride.

Nelson was too proud of the laurels won by his strong, sleek body ever to get his papers as a modern journeyman highwayman. He had to tell a girl victim how good he was. Now he's in a cell, 20 crimes confessed, his "easy money" scheme gone bitterly awry.

Winner of a score of sporting trophies, many of the skating medals in Chicago, the international amateur skating champion in 1927, when he was also joint holder of the national championship, a star sprinter and rated a cracking first baseman when he played with the Peoria team of the Three-I league, Nelson might have served as a model for American boys a few months ago.

He is stalwart, more than 6 feet tall, clean-cut and of intelligent appearance. He lives on a rigid training schedule—no coffee, no tobacco, no liquor.

He had a $65-a-week job with a wholesale grocery house. This he gave up for the "easy money" he thought crime would bring. Police were without clues to a series of holdups until Nelson and a pal stole a car in Evanston, kidnapping Dolores Bannon, 22, who was drowning in it, and forcing her to accompany them on a robbery tour in another suburb.

Dolores wept in fright while Nelson, with school-boy braggadocio, related his athletic triumphs, emphasizing his skill with skates. He didn't give his name, of course, but Dolores for all her tears, was a good listener. She learned enough that when she told police her story they checked over athletic records, put two and two together and made four.

The nation-wide search began. Nelson's picture was broadcast. Police thought he would be captured next winter at some ice event. But two detectives, investigating a suspicious car, found him by accident in Chicago. Nelson ran, easily sprinting away from the pain clothes men, but they halted him with shots.

Nelson confessed almost gladly and when victims had trouble in identifying him supplied incidents of the crime to refresh their memories.

It's Easier To Talk To An Indian Than To A Frenchman, Anyway!

GLACIER PARK, Mont., July 29.—Chief Two Guns White and want to continue the conversation further by telling one of the squaws, for instance, that she has a good looking face, you approach the one to be addressed and go through these motions: Draw the inside of the right hand down over the face, and then make a quick motion with it toward the front, edge of hand outward and palm down.

If she smiles, and you would like to have her go for a walk through the camp with you just:

Extend both hands, palms downward in front of the body, make several alternate motions backward and forward as if in the act of walking.

On the other hand, if the tourist is approached by an ugly squaw who indicates she would like to dance with him at the camp festivities and he wants to turn down the social invitation, he can do it "right quick" by:

Drawing the inside of the right hand down over the face to near the chin, and then quickly moving it out to the front as though casting something away.

Of course, it wouldn't do for the average tourist to learn anything interrogative in the sign language, for he wouldn't understand the two hands together, and with tightly interlocked fingers in the manner used by Christians in the act of prayer make a slight quivering motion to express firmness.

Any Indian unless he was on the warpath, seeing you go through this performance, would reach out and give you a friendly handclasp.

If you're a good memorizer of

"I might as well tell all," he commented. "If I don't some of it will confront me later. I've been dumb enough to get into this, and I'm willing to serve my rap. I've learned enough during the last few months to sicken me of 'easy money' for the rest of my life."

Nelson laughed at the suggestion he might be mentally unbalanced. "You can hardly lay this dumb lineup to anything but my own shortsightedness. I refuse to alibi on such a weak defense."

stand the answer flashed back at him with the Indian's hands. So, all he does is learn a few friendly signs that do not necessarily open up a "conversation." He could, of course, approach an Indian and indicate to him that he felt joyous to meet him. He'd do this by smiling and at the same time:

Bringing all the points of the fingers of the extended right hand together and placing the hand palm downward and nails downward over the region of the heart, and after holding it there for a moment, elevating it over the head and with fully opened fingers (right edge to the front) making a slight undulating motion.

If you want to trade with an Indian:

Extend the index finger of the left hand, edge up, and across the same with the forefinger of the right hand, and under edge being placed on top of the left finger.

Many white men have tried but few have become adept at handling the Indian sign language. If a tourist only can learn one "set of movements" about the easiest are those indicating comradeship. To do this:

You place the index finger of each hand side by side, closing all the other fingers at the same time.

This means "we're comrades, partners as one." Then to prove it you give the Indian half a dollar or whatever coin you're used to parting with freely. This won't draw you into further conversation, for the Indian'll put the money in his moccasins, grunt his approval of your generosity and offer you an empty hand as his approval of your "friendship, tried and true."

Now Women are Better Managers

The work of making and maintaining a home is done better by the housewife of today than by her mother or her grandmother. She makes her money go farther and has more to show for it.

She spends less time in marketing and less in the kitchen, yet the meals she serves are more appetizing, more wholesome, better balanced.

Her house is clean and orderly, a pleasant place to live in, but at the same time she gets along with less help.

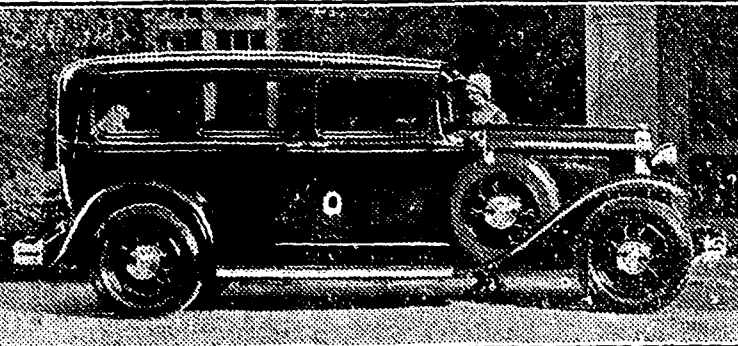

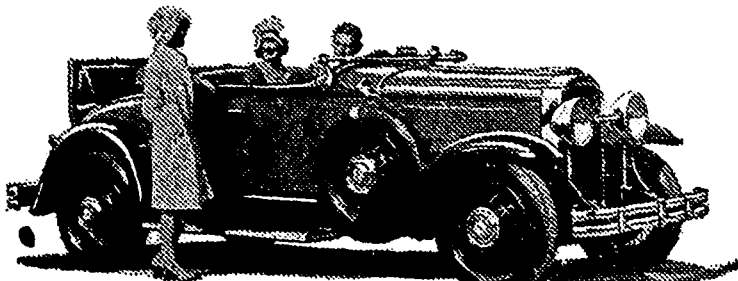

She dresses herself and her children with taste, and does it on a smaller proportion of her funds.

It is modern advertising that has shown her how to make her home more attractive, how to save herself time and labor, and above all how to buy economically.

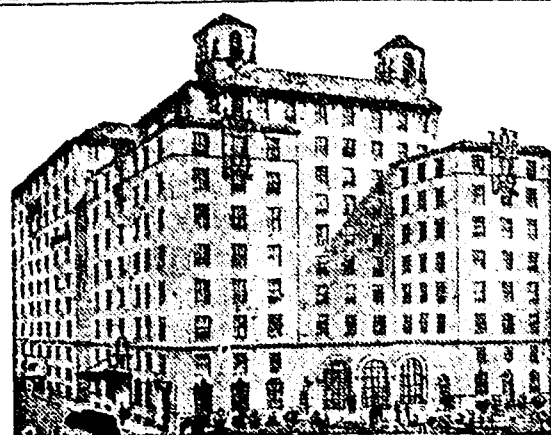

The best housekeepers are those who follow the advertisements day by day and do their buying accordingly.

When you read the advertising columns you are taking a daily course in Domestic Science.
